

COMBINATION HUNTING AND FISHING LICENSE FOR YEAR AVAILABLE GAME WARDEN ADVISES

Randolph Bourgeois, Game Warden, advised that combination hunting and fishing licenses and state resident fishing licenses together with the non-resident fishing and commercial fishing licenses have been received from the State Game and Fish Commission and can now be secured at the Office of the Sheriff and Tax-Collector. For the convenience of the fishing public, these licenses may also be secured at the home of the Game Warden at 449 Ballentine Street, and at Mauffray's Hardware Store, in Bay St. Louis.

There is available a three dollar combination hunting and fishing license, which covers hunting for the entire state and covers the hunting of deer in those counties which are open to deer hunting and also includes fishing. A person who buys a dollar hunting license of a particular county cannot exchange that license on a state license later. It will be far better if they would buy the three dollar combination hunting and fishing license at first and then they would be in a position to hunt and fish throughout the state, and hunt deer in those counties that are open.

A wedding of interest to many in Bay St. Louis was that of Miss Edith Hilda May Cuff, daughter of Mrs. W. Cuff and the late Mr. Cuff of Jubilee Cottage, England, and Pfc. Evan Joseph Pucheu of the U. PROMINENT VISITOR

Mrs. Doris Duke Cromwell, "The Richest Girl in America" was on the coast on Sunday as a guest of Commander and Mrs. H. A. Andrews at Camp Kittiwake and the Merchant Marine Cadet School. Mrs. Cromwell is in New Orleans where she is training for U.S. foreign duty and her trip to Camp Kittiwake was part of her training. She rated Camp Kittiwake as one of the best set ups for service for Merchant Seamen that she had visited. The visitor was also delighted with the Cadet School and found it a most modern equipped unit. The $22,000,000 heiress said she had not been this far south before and was charmed with the beauty of the coast country. She is most unassuming and is inclined to want publicity. If tight shy of interviews, she said but was pleased to converse on general topics.

William S. Schwartz Loses Life By Drowning

The city of Bay St. Louis was shocked when the news of the death by accidental drowning of William S. Schwartz, son of Mrs. Edward Schwartz and the late Mr. Schwartz former residents of this city, was flashed over the radio.

Billy fell from the stern of the motor boat in which he and three other persons were fishing in Lake Ponchartrain on Sunday afternoon but the body was not recovered until some time Tuesday afternoon. Funeral was held on Wednesday, July 5, at 9:30 with a requiem mass at the Sacred Heart of Jesus church at 10 a. m. Interment was in Metairie cemetery.

Billy was a Bay St. Louis boy and as such the town knew him. He was born here in 1916 and was a graduate of St. Stanislaus. He later attended Notre Dame but took his degree from Creighton University. He played football at both schools. He leaves his mother, his brother Marchmont Schwartz the All-American Football star and Edward Schwartz.

The family had resided in Bay St. Louis for quite a number of years, moving to New Orleans shortly after the death of Mr. Schwartz. There are many whose heads were bowed in grief over the untimely death of this splendid young man and to his mother and brothers and other relatives the Echo extends heartfelt sympathy.

Going from here for the funeral were Mesdames Laurin Gex, H. Grady Perkins, Ulysses Cuevas, Mr. and Mrs. James McConnell, Miss Ruth Perkins, Messrs Foster Comanegre, Horace and Alan Vainin.

TWO LOGTOWN BOYS WOUNDED IN ACTION RECENTLY

Recent communications from the War Department are that Arnold Carver, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. U. Carver, of this community was slightly wounded on June 8th.

Arnold has been in the Army quite awhile, is 24 years of age and is married to the former Marguerite Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jones of Gainesville. He has two brothers in the service.

Walton Baxter, son of Mrs. Emma Baxter, was one of the first boys to leave this community for the service and has been overseas almost two years. He is with Gen. Patton's army. His mother was notified that he was slightly wounded on June 15th. His wife, who with their two small children, resides in Moss Point, and brother, Alton Baxter came over the night the news was received, and stayed until Sunday with his mother, who returned with them to Moss Point. She has another son, Austin, in the service, the Navy, and stationed in Texas.

Another boy, Grayson Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Miller of the Gainesville community, was also wounded in the invasion but his mother has received news directly from him, stating that he is getting along fine. He has two other brothers in service.

Everyone is in sympathy with these families and it is when we and our neighbors are feeling the war effects so directly, that one realizes the real meaning of "War."

Many Visitors Here For July 4th Holidays

There was an unusually large crowd of visitors in Bay St. Louis for the Fourth of July—more it was estimated than has been seen here in many years.

However, it was a quiet Fourth. There seemed to be little if any of the usual hilarity and there was an absence of beach bonfires and fire works. From appearance there seemed to be a desire to get away from the strain of long hours and help shortage which makes business so strenuous these days, and to come to the coast and take it easy during the extra holidays.

And there were no casualties, which was probably due to the speed curbing enforced on the driving public. There would doubtless have been even more visitors if accommodations could have been found for them but the delightful cool weather and the number of holidays were a boon to those leading such strenuous lives these days.

Tournament Held At Recreational School

On Monday, July 3, the Recreational School held a tournament and Mrs. Leo Levy of New Orleans assisted with the competitive games. Stunts on traveling rings, jungle tumble, races (relay) and 20-yard dash were run off.

The girl winners in badminton games were played against the winners of the boys.

Contest in archery was held and Martin Noto scored highest.

Miss Gloria Parillo gave the older children lessons in swimming. After the swim Mrs. Ashcraft served the children with ice cream.

The Recreational School enrollment is steadily growing.

Mrs. Leo Levy is in charge of the lunch room, where well balanced meals are served to these happy youngsters.

The children are weighed weekly—the majority gaining from a half to two pounds weekly.

Assignment of Selectees

A new procedure in regard to assignment of selectees to the army, navy, or marine corps becomes effective July 1, 1944.

Preinduction physical examination will continue as in effect now with a period of 21 days prior to induction; but selectees are now being assigned to a common pool of men acceptable to the armed forces. No men qualified for limited service only are acceptable for induction. The local boards tomorrow will begin ordering men for induction into the armed forces and the assignment to the army, navy or marine corps will be made at the time of induction at the Armed Forces Induction Station at Camp Shelby, instead of assignment to a separate pool at the time of Preinduction Physical Examination from which they were ordered to each branch of service in the past.

The local boards now will order only one group for induction instead of ordering registrants to each branch of the service.

Selectees who feel that they are particularly qualified for some branch of service should volunteer, expressing their preference substantiated by the facts, including school record, training, and other such information. No guarantee can be given that such assignment will be made, but every effort to place such

Represents State Defense Council At National Conference

Mrs. George R. Rea, while visiting her parents in Cleveland represented the State Defense Council at the National Conference of Social Work held in Cleveland, May 22-27. All phases of social service for post war activity with public welfare administration, youth guidance, American Red Cross and community organization through the Office of Civilian Defense were discussed and acted upon in relation to the services which will be required when the war is over.

Mrs. Rea said that at the meeting of state directors OCD, Thomas Divine, assistant director United States OCD, stated that while Civilian Defense is a war time emergency organization that will cease to exist with the end of the war some of the by-products of civilian defense will live long after the OCD has become unnecessary.

The activities of volunteers in civilian war service have been as varied and broad as the war impelled needs of their own communities and in doing the job of community services Americans and the communities are developing the technique of organization and cooperation which will be felt for years to come in united action of all agencies, groups and individuals on the paramount job of making each community a cleaner, more wholesome place in which to live.

S. R. Power, state director of Civilian Defense has resigned his office and has been succeeded by the Rev. Otis Ashworth who has served as assistant director since the organization of the state council and who will take over the duties of director.

Post War programs for local levels are being developed to keep in contact the volunteer organizations which have come to mean so much to all in all community services Mrs. Rea said.

The local Civilian Defense Office will be open each day from 2 to 5 except Saturday until further notice.

MISSISSIPPIANS AT WAR

Private First Class Eddie Bea Albritton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hill, Picayune, is one of the women Marines who have replaced men in the camp telegraph office at Camp Lejeune, N. C. She is formerly of Logtown, Miss.

Pvt. Albritton was sworn into the service in July 1943. After completing her basic training at the Recruit Depot at Camp Lejeune, she was assigned to the Radio Material School in Omaha, Neb.

She returned to Camp Lejeune last fall when she took up her duties in the Camp Communication Office. She is pictured reading messages as they come in over the wire.

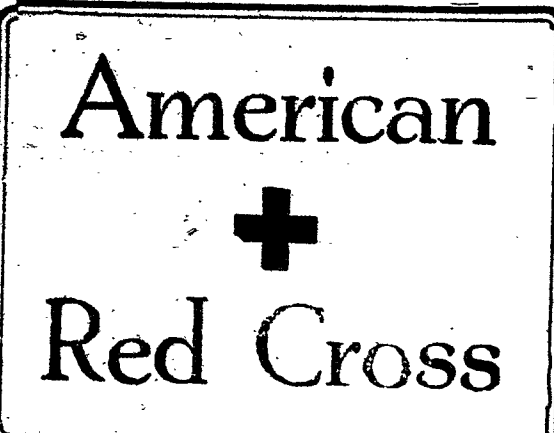

She attended Bay St. Louis High School and was employed by the Picayune Veneer Co., and was recently transferred to Parris Island, S. C.

an individual will be made when all facts are taken into consideration by the assignment group at the Induction Station of the Armed Forces. Any registrants of selective service may volunteer who is between the ages of 18 and 45 (waivers must be secured on those between 38 and 45) except the following groups:

a. A "necessary man" in industry, agriculture, or health and welfare services.

b. Those whose acceptance would bring about destitution and privation to their dependents.

c. The Vice-President of the United States, the governor of a state, any official of the State chosen by voters of the entire State, a member of Congress, a member of the State Legislature, or a judge of a court of record of the United States, or a State, who is required by law to be deferred.

Send Your Used Paper to War!

When American marines moved in recently on a Japan-held island, they cached in the shallow water offshore tons of ammunition that could not be squeezed into their crowded landing craft. All day the explosives laid on the ocean bed, snug and dry in waterproof paper-board containers. That night, guided by luminous floats, the Marines hauled up their cache and used it to complete the job of wiping out the enemy.

We are fighting this war with paper, and we do not have enough of it. Simply to design one big battleship takes 175 tons of blueprint paper. Shells as heavy as a Ford car, that can tear a ship to pieces from a distance of 30 miles, are wrapped for shipment in paper. Parachutes of paper drift down with ammunition and food for isolated fighting men. Seven hundred thousand separate war items are paper-made or paper-packed.

We lack paper because so many men who used to cut the wood for paper mills have gone to war. To make up for this shortage, the War Production Board is renewing with greater urgency than ever its plea that we save all used paper.

Two thirds of all the available paper in the country—8,000,000 tons—must be recovered during 1944.

Only if every one of us meets this challenge to patriotic action on the home front, and begins now to save every possible scrap of used paper, can we reach that staggering goal. This is particularly an opportunity for the children in every home to do something real toward winning the war.

Here are simple rules to follow: Fold newspapers flat; tie them in bundles a foot high.

Flatten waste paper—wrappers, envelopes, etc.—and pack in a box or bundle.

If you do not know who is collecting the waste paper in your community, call up your WPB Salvage Board, which you will find listed in your telephone book, or your local newspaper. They will give you the information over the telephone.

Send every scrap you do not need to war!—Literary Digest.

One of the very finest things about your Red Cross, is the fact that it is prepared at all times for future emergencies. At the present time, plans are being laid for the training of workers for case loads of claims and benefits which will be due all service men and their families.

This is going to mean a great deal of post war work, and trainees must be started now so that when the time for their usefulness is at hand they will be ready to go to work immediately. This is an extensive course of training, and the complete program will be under way shortly. This work will come under the able direction of Mrs. Louis F. Maumus, Executive Secretary of Hancock County.

CHARLES TACONI, 74, DIES AT HOME HERE

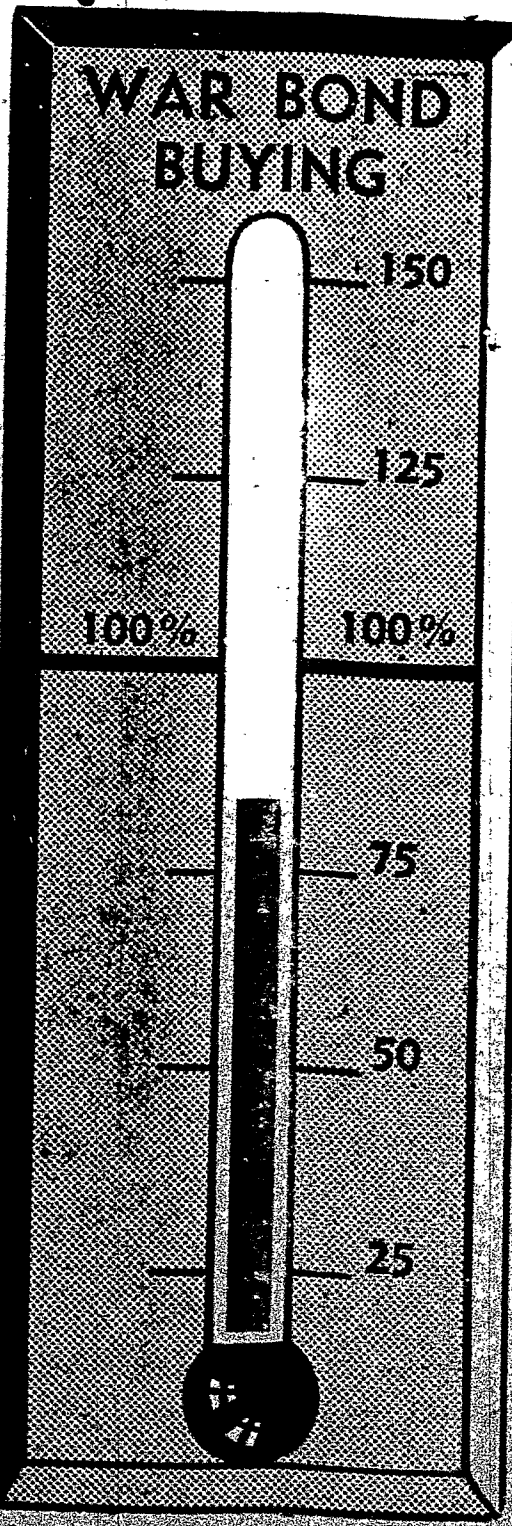

Charles Taconi, 74 year old native and resident of this city, died at his home, 212 Carroll avenue, on Thursday, June 29 at 6:30 p. m., following a brief illness. Though in failing health for a number of years his death was sudden.

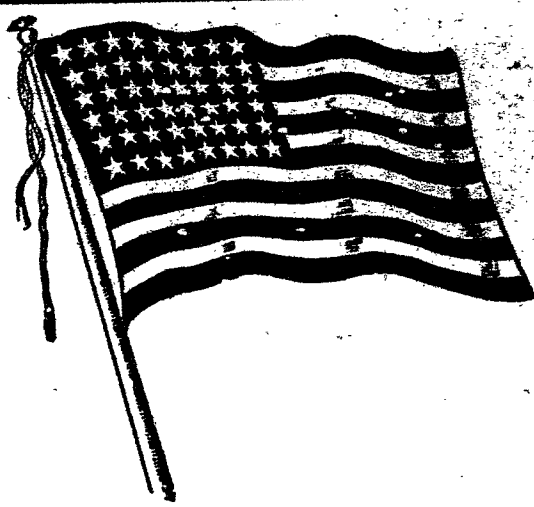

Funeral services were conducted on Friday afternoon at 5:30 p. m. with the rites of the Catholic church at the Fahey Funeral Home, and at Our Lady of the Gulf Church, the Rev. Father William Clark officiating. Interment was in Cedar Rest cemetery. His pall bearers were Rodney Luxich, Gulfport; Henry Capdepon, Laurent Dickson, Emile Perre, Alfred Vassalli and August Perre of Bay St. Louis.

Mr. Taconi is survived by his five sons, Charles Taconi, Gulfport; August Taconi, Pass Christian, Emile Taconi, New Orleans, Louis and John Taconi, Bay St. Louis. He also leaves four grandchildren; three brothers August, John and James Taconi, Bay St. Louis, a sister Mrs. Julia Taconi McDonald, Pass Christian.

Mr. Taconi was a member of a large family and owned and operated a grocery store in the early days of the canning industry here.

To the family of this law abiding citizen of our city the Echo is extending sympathy in the loss of their father and brother.

BLOOD, BONDS AND FREEDOM

THE nation that celebrates a Declaration of Independence should not forget that it is worth only what our fighting men make it mean as they battle the enemies of this republic. No words, written by eminent men of the past, give us liberty or guarantee us against becoming the serfs of barbaric foes. Neither pious proclamation of principles nor patriotic enunciation of loyalty and devotion maintain American independence in the year of 1944.

Once again the nation is in a period of stress and strife, exerting its full strength to avert defeat. In times like these the only thing that counts is the number, valor and service of brave men, willing to risk their lives that the nation may survive.

The purchase of bonds represents the loan of a part of your money to the government in order that it may compel other men to protect what you possess. The return that a home-front patriot receives is measured in per cent interest but there is no monetary value placed upon the risks that fighting men take.

Certainly, a nation of people have no right to enjoy the fruits of a great revolution if in the present era there is delay and confusion in support of those on the battlefield, whose efforts alone make the famous declaration a reality.

The nation asks a loan from those at home; it asks and, often receives, the lives of its fighting sons. We do not honor our soldiers and sailors and airmen by purchasing war bonds; we merely give a token to signify that we are not traitors and ingrates.

RETALIATION INEVITABLE

THE British and Canadian governments have concluded that the death of fifty captive airmen, reported shot for attempting to escape by the Germans, was the result of Nazi executions, unauthorized by international law, and consequently a crime which must be expiated by those guilty when the war ends.

The fact that none of the prisoners of war were wounded is almost conclusive evidence that the men were not shot while trying to escape. All of them were killed and the bodies of twenty-eight were cremated by the Germans.

Mr. Anthony Eden has assured the House of Commons that those guilty of such "cold-blooded acts of butchery" will be tracked down to the last man and brought to "exemplary justice." This is as it should be and does not reflect a blind revenge but rather a determination to punish the guilty which may have some bearing on the protection of other prisoners of war in German hands.

Recently, from Germany have come charges that German soldiers in Normandy have been killed by Anglo-American units after being captured with the warning that the Nazis will exact reprisals, executing ten of our men for every German slain.

This is a dangerous game for the Germans to play. They ought to know that the Allies will be able to exact terrible vengeance for such terrorism. Our own idea is that the Hitlerites should be warned that, after the war, high German officials will die for every Allied prisoner who is unjustly executed by the Nazis.

It is possible that the Nazis, in a blind rage of defeatism, will attempt sadistic revenge upon prisoners of war. Consequently, there is every reason to let them know that stern reprisals will be visited upon them. This will be effective, we think, because the Nazis have sense enough to know that, at the end of the war, they will be helpless supplicants for the mercy of their conquerors.

FRENCH HELP ALLIES

WHILE the news available from the battle front in Normandy is confined to the barest outlines, with an occasional dispatch describing the exploit of a particular group, there are indications that the French people have rendered considerable assistance to the Anglo-American soldiers.

A special Allied communique recently reported that German armored divisions had been "seriously delayed" and that French resistance and sabotage in the rear of the German forces reached such proportions in many regions that the enemy has been forced to send "considerable forces" against the French who have risked their lives to aid the invasion.

It begins to look like a man must be Governor of New York if he expects to be President of the United States.

Hancock County boys, now overseas, enjoy reading The Sea Coast Echo and we consider it a privilege to send it to them.

War may be glorious for nations, as many men assert, but it is hell on the individuals who have to suffer for their fellow-countrymen.

The man who buys a bond is doing nothing for his country; he is merely taking out some insurance, without net cost to himself, against losing his property to the Japs and the Germans.

The Red Army apparently takes the war seriously and intends to contribute to the defeat of Herr Hitler.

After the war you can expect speed and more speed, on the highways, on rails and in the air.

Traffic Deaths

Traffic deaths in the United States in the first four months of 1944 increased 15 per cent over the same period of 1943. In these four months of 1944 there were 7,650 people killed in the United States in automobile wrecks. If this ratio runs through the entire year it will pile up a total of approximately 27,000 traffic deaths. In the four months of this year there were 99 people killed in traffic accidents in Mississippi, as against 85 last year and 136 in 1941. The increase in traffic deaths is a matter that deeply concerns the country and efforts are being made to do something about it.

State Buys Bonds

The Bond Retirement Commission made an important bond deal last week. They sold most of the certificates bought earlier and invested in bonds bearing a better rate of interest. The certificates they sold were drawing 7-8 of one per cent and the new purchase consists of $9,000,000 bearing interest at the rate of 1 1/2 per cent and $9,000,000 drawing two per cent. This leaves the state holding $3,700,000 of the 7-8 per cent certificates first bought. The exchange means a nice increase of interest for the state.

Tax Collections

In the first 26 days of June this tax commission collected for the state the sum of $3,100,808.84, leading the same period of 1943 by more than thirty thousand dollars. In the last six months of 1944, being the last half of the fiscal year and the last quarter of the biennium, the tax commission collected more than seventeen million dollars, running approximately two million ahead of the same period of 1943.

FARMERS URGED TO CUT TIMBER IN JULY AND AUGUST

July and August will furnish Mississippi farmers their best opportunity to produce timber in the seven-month period between March and November, according to W. M. Palmer, Jr., of Jackson, acting area forester, United States Forest Service in this state.

Palmer said data prepared by the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station, the weather stations at Herpando, Stoneville and Belzoni and figures from the cropping pattern determined by the 1944 production goals program, showed a relatively low volume of work for the production of food crops during July and August.

A table showing farm labor requirements for the cultivation of 100 acres of cropland in the brown loam area, according to 1943 field schedules, reveals that 64.53 ten-hour days of labor were required in June and 29.85 and 34.87 man days were needed for July and August respectively but the figures climb to 116.82 for September, mostly due to the cotton crop.

Because of the serious shortage of labor in regular timber crews, Palmer urged farmers to contribute as much time as possible to timber production during the comparatively slack farm season in July and August. Other months during periods when the ground is too wet to cultivate, these months afford about the only season during the summer that farmers can devote much time to felling trees, sawing and bucking logs and cutting pulpwood.

Farmers can make their greatest contribution to wood production after crops are laid by, but Palmer emphasized the importance of farm workers taking advantage of every day they can spare from their crops this summer to work in the woods because of pressing need of forest products for warfare.

Palmer pointed out that wood is now the top critical war material and that unless farmers supplement the woods labor deficit the nation will fail to meet its minimum requirements of 34 billion board feet of lumber and 14 million cords of pulpwood this year.

Transportation was seen as a problem almost as serious as labor in the production of timber. Farmers have been urged to use their teams, trucks and tractors in hauling their logs from the woods to the roadside or assembly point as a means of easing the transportation pinch.

Farm woodlands are considered as important to war production as a factory that turns out planes, guns and tanks since wood is used in the construction of these weapons. The Army and Navy list 1,200 items made from wood. For every ship in a convoy, ten car loads of dunnage are needed just to pack the cargo and keep it from shifting within the ship.

Crating and boxing this year will require more than 15 billion board feet, almost half of the 1944 lumber requirements. That does not include the thousands of cords of pulpwood that will be needed for paperboard containers. Farmers themselves consume much of the packaging material procured from lumber and pulpwood. One of the most serious bottlenecks threatening the distribution of food is a shortage of containers, Palmer declared.

With timber bringing peak prices, the farmer has an opportunity to cash in on his woodlands. Many farmers are paying mortgages on their farms through the sale of pulpwood and sawlogs.

Palmer warned farmers against destructive timber cutting methods and he urged farmers to use selective practices to conserve their woodland resources.

Farmers needing help in marketing timber and advice on the proper manner of harvesting trees or in solving other problems in timber production were asked to consult their local forester, USDA War Board, or county agent.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY AT ORTTE THEATRE "LADIES COURAGEOUS"

Starring Loretta Young and Geraldine Fitzgerald and Excellent Supporting Cast

Packing a tremendous emotional punch and telling the thrilling story of America's Army women flyers, Walter Wanger's "Ladies Courageous," with an all-star cast headed by Loretta Young and Geraldine Fitzgerald, plays Sunday and Monday at the Ortte Theatre.

The Universal Studio production brings to the public for the first time Air Force scenes of women flyers in action. Most of the scenes were filmed at a U. S. Air Force base—said to be one of the busiest airports in the world.

"Ladies Courageous," tells the story of the WAFS—Women's Auxiliary Ferrying Squadron—a civilian unit of the U. S. Army, which was organized in 1942 with twenty-five of the nation's foremost young women flyers in the original group. Recently, the WAFS were merged with other Army women's units and today are known as the WASPS—Women's Airforce Service Pilots.

With such an authentic background Screen Writers Norman Reilly Raine and Doris Gilbert were able to write a powerful story, replete with romantic twists, realistic and convincing.

Actually, the personal stories of three beautiful young women caught in the web of war are ingeniously threaded into the well-paced plot of "Ladies Courageous," revealing an intimate picture of the emotional conflicts with which each of the girls finds herself beset.

Miss Young, as executive officer of the WAFS, has a role which calls upon her to play the modern young woman of purpose and common

DRIVE IT HOME!

"That's the way I like to see them," said Gen. MacArthur when he saw the rows of dead Japs in the Admiralty Islands. In this war—the costliest, cruellest war of all time—our boys must fight with savage fury. Kill or be killed! And on how well each plays his part depends the lives of many of his buddies.

Here on the home front, too, just cheering the attack on isn't enough.

That's why there's a Fifth War Bond drive now, a drive in which you're needed to support the men on the fighting fronts who are facing the most treacherous forces Americans have ever met in combat. We on the home front can't let them down—and we won't. So resolve now to at least double your Bond buying in the 5th War Loan drive. This is the time to do better than your best.

Ration Calendar for Week Of July 3

PROCESSED FOODS: Blue stamps A8 through Z8 and A5 (Book No. 4) now valid at 10 points each, for use with tokens. Good indefinitely.

MEATS AND FATS: Red stamps A8 through Z8 (Book No. 4) now valid at 10 points each, for use with tokens. Good indefinitely.

SUGAR: Sugar stamps Nos. 30, 31 and 32 (Book No. 4) good for 5 pounds each indefinitely.

CANNING SUGAR: Sugar Stamp No. 40 good for five pounds canning sugar until February 28, 1945.

GASOLINE: A-12 coupons now valid, expire Sept. 21.

"T" gasoline ration coupons marked "2nd Qtr." are no longer good for retail purchases of gasoline. OPA reminded operators of farm trucks, other trucks, all taxicabs and all commercial vehicles.

Coupons bearing the designation "3rd Qtr." which have been issued as special rations which do not expire until after June 30, may exchange them at their local war price and rationing board for third quarter "T" coupons.

Maximum prices for watermelons, which will mean substantial reductions from last summer's high retail prices, have been issued by OPA.

The action establishes dollars and cent shipping point prices, and dollar and cent mark-ups for the various handlers, including retailers.

The F. O. B. ceiling (after July 4) is $35 per ton. The maximum wholesale mark-up is 1.3 cents per pound and the retail mark-up is 1 1/2 cents per pound for Group I and II stores and one cent per pound for Group III and IV stores.

Return to point values of choice cuts of lamb and higher point values on some choice beef cuts have been ordered by OPA to effect a better distribution of these meats.

Canned asparagus, peas and tomatoes have rejected the list of blue-point value foods. In the popular No. 2 can size, asparagus will cost 10 points; tomatoes and peas, 5 points.

This action was taken because surveys show the carry-over from last year's pack are small, OPA said.

Another romance between Smokey's roommate and the army sergeant marries but can't have a honeymoon which adds to the many comedy moments of the film, as does a satirical reception at the swank home of a lion-hunting Washington hostess.

Filled with vivid detail of Capital life, the picture was photographed with exceptional care to obtain authentic atmosphere.

Miss de Havilland may be said to be ideally cast as the conscientious secretary, and Tufts, who recently scored in a big way with his screen debut in "So Proudly We Hail," gets an even bigger break as the hero of this offering. Jess Barker and Paul Stewart as a pair of rivals for the heroine's affections, Anne Shirley and James Dunn as the newlyweds, Agnes Moorehead as the hostess, Una O'Connor as a stern landlady, Geo. Givert as an espionage agent, Harry Davenport and Sig Ruman have the principal supporting roles in the RKO Radio production, which was scripted and directed by Dudley Nichols from the Ladies' Home Journal serial by Adela Rogers St. John.

There Must be No Shortage of Telephone Equipment on War Fronts

Tons on tons of telephone cables, wire, switchboards, telephone instruments and hundreds of other types of telephone equipment have been shipped to England for use by our armies in their advances through Europe.

More shiploads are following to meet the growing demands of the war fronts, not only in Europe but the Pacific, as well.

All out production of telephone equipment for our armed forces takes virtually all available manufacturing facilities and manpower, and reserve supplies are about exhausted.

The shortage of supplies for home use has made it impossible for us to keep up with civilian orders for service. That is why we, over here, must continue to do the best we can with the limited amount of equipment we have on hand.

We keenly regret that more and more people are having to wait for telephone service, due to the increasing war demands. But there must be no waiting for the men who fight our battles.

Your continued patience and cooperation in these difficult times is greatly appreciated.

PARAMOUNT'S "LADY IN THE DARK" TOPS A. & G. THEATRE SUNDAY-MONDAY

Ginger Rogers Superb in Technicolor Extravaganza

Many fine pictures have come out of Hollywood in recent months, but none can hold a candle for entertainment value to Paramount's Technicolor picturization of the Moss Hart play-with-music, "Lady in the Dark," to be at the A. & G. Theatre Sunday and Monday, July 9 and 10.

Co-starring Ginger Rogers, Ray Milland, Warner Baxter and Jon Hall and with Mischa Auer in a top supporting role, "Lady in the Dark" tells an intriguing story about a successful woman editor of a swanky magazine whose nerves have suddenly gotten out of control. Ginger plays the "Lady in the Dark" and it is far and away the best thing she has ever done. As Liza Elliott, confused, unhappy victim of many repressions, Ginger rises to new dramatic heights and returns to her old singing-dancing self. In her rendition of "The Saga of Jenny" she is in top form, dancing and singing her way through the life story of a girl who made up her mind and regretted it.

The plot of "Lady in the Dark" develops in good part in a psychoanalyst's office where Liza reveals her dreams and subconscious thoughts, thereby tracing the causes of her unhappiness. The dreams are an integral part of the story and their conception and execution on the screen represent the very finest in motion picture technique and entertainment. Mention must be made of the scenic magnificence of the blue dream, the gold and green dream and the circus dream, thru all of which Ginger, as Liza, cavorts with the men in her life, as she would like to actually. How her real life is strangled out and how she finally winds up in the arms of the man she loves by means of an understanding of her dreams, makes "Lady in the Dark" outstanding screen fare.

Ray Milland is seen as Charley Johnson, advertising manager of Ginger's magazine with whom she is always at swords' points. Warner Baxter plays the man she thinks she loves, and Jon Hall is cast as a famous motion picture star she almost marries. Mischa Auer is funnier than ever as Russell Faxton, fashion photographer extraordinary. And, incidentally, the ladies are going to be treated to a rare fashion show, as the clothes worn not only by Ginger Rogers but by the various models who walk in and out of her office are what they will probably call "out of this world." And all in glorious Technicolor.
